

What can you see when you look up?

In our busy lives at Nursery we enjoyed taking a minute to lie down and look up at the tree and think about what we could see. We talked about the colours of the leaves the patterns of the branches. We pointed with our finger to follow the line of a branch. While we were doing this the occasional leaf fell down and one even landed on Mrs Johnson. This lovely moment is what Forest Friday is all about for us to understand what happens to trees in autumn we need to get outside and experience it.

We are learning to notice features of our Natural World.
